

ROSES

Prefer open sunny position. Are hungry feeders. Prepare beds well in advance with incorporation of rotted manure or compost. In subsequent years fertilizer may be used as a top dressing.

Roses can be stunted if planted in old rose beds without renewing the soil. Be prepared to spray for aphids, blackspot, rust and mildew. Collect and burn fallen rose leaves to aid disease prevention.

On planting, shorten all stems to 4 buds. In following years, maintain a framework of 4 to 6 main stems, reducing season's growth to 3 buds for H.T. and 5 for Floribunda. Deadheading promotes new flowers.

ROSES

SHRUB ROSES £8.00 each containerised

Shrub roses may attain height and width of 120cm-180cm (4-6 feet) depending on variety. Many have interesting foliage and/or decorative hips. Only deadhead repeat flowering varieties. Remove 1/3 of old wood each year at base to keep open and retain character. Early flowering varieties April/May. Majority of varieties flower June. Repeat varieties continue all summer. Often mistakenly confined to their own border. They have much character to contribute in a mixed border.
